Success

"Success is achieved when a stretch goal is met overcoming failures, problems and difficulties by conscious effort and by application of capabilities, resources and methods. It is to be differentiated from luck, chance and doing what comes naturally without effort." Success is not a cheap talk; rather, it places a great demand on anyone who desires to have it. Also, success is not a destination; rather, it is a journey. Additionally success is in grades and levels and it has different colours depending individual's perception. Dreams are seeds of great accomplishments and fulfillment in life. Success in every endeavour of man is traceable to the dream of man. To put it in another way; no man can fulfill a divine mandate without engaging the power of dream. In other words, the reason for failure in the race of life is a direct product of lack of dream. Dreams are extremely important, because, you cannot do anything successfully unless you can imagine it first. In order to succeed, man must first determine which things in life are most valuable to him. He must determine his feeling about such things as patriotism, pride, love, freedom, excellence, ownership and tolerance. Without a value system we can never move forward, because, we may be trading without increasing our potential for success. Our value system is what determines our thinking and dream patterns. In this book, I am going to be exploring some of the various aspects of the subject of success through your dream for the purpose of sparking off the passion for success in you. Each chapter contains short words of motivation that will drive you into your success dreamland. Welcome to your season of great achievement as you DREAM BIG to SUCCEED.

First, various components of the engine were manufactured in different departments in the plant. Eventually, all of the parts for building the motor were in their respective station along the assembly line. After assembly, if the engine started and passed all of the tests, it was boxed up and sent to one of Ford Motor Company's assembly plants for installation in a particular model car. There is a method, a pattern, a formula for assembling multiple engines for different cars. They used the same concept for producing the various models of cars coming off of their respective assembly lines. It was a magnificent phenomenon. Of course, wherever possible, the industry is using computer-guided robots now. But the robotics was inspired by the formula put into motion leading to success in efficiently producing an automobile. The company had such a perfect system that a customer could order a car and schedule a day and time to pick it up at the factory the day it came off of the assembly line. Ford Motor Company had the perfect formula, created over time, to build quality automobiles and have the customer involved in the process, if they so desired.

The Mom Test is a quick, practical guide that will save you time, money, and heartbreak. They say you shouldn't ask your mom whether your business is a good idea, because she loves you and will lie to you. This is technically true, but it misses the point. You shouldn't ask anyone if your business is a good idea. It's a bad question and everyone will lie to you at least a little. As a matter of fact, it's not their responsibility to tell you the truth. It's your responsibility to find it and it's worth doing right. Talking to customers is one of the foundational skills of both Customer Development and Lean Startup. We all know we're supposed to do it, but nobody seems willing to admit that it's easy to screw up and hard to do right. This book is going to show you how customer conversations go wrong and how you can do better.
