We See Europeans I Think There Is a Special Problem Which Is that as Nation-States They'Re Actually Too Small each of Them Is Too Small Even German To Have the Impact on the World that It Feels It Needs To Have and Yet They Are So Different that When They Try To Cooperate They Find You Know all Kinds of Obstacles and Difficulties Tremendously Frustrating Position To Be in and I'M Not I Don't Know whether It's Soluble or Not but I Tend Less To Be One of the Americans Who Shakes Their Finger at the Eu and More Sort Of Wishes Them Well but I Don't See How They'Re Headed for Something on Your Core Question of Plans and Kellogg-Briand I Think that Treaties the Treaty Process Can Be Very Effective

But When You Try To Get When You Try To in a Sense Channel Fundamental Decisions about National Development That Affect every Industry every Interest in every Country and Try To Do that through a Sort of a Treaty Mechanism I Think that's It that's a Task that that Machine Can Do So When I Think of You Know How Do We You Know How Can We Start To Make Better Progress on this and I Do Look at Things like I Don't Think that 50 Years from Now People Are GonNa Have the Same Kind of Like Salmon Swimming Upstream To Spawn Commuters Flocking into Central Cities To Work and Then Walking Out at the End of the Day and I Think You Know each Generation Is Better at Cooperating - from the Opposite of Latency to a System Which Will Increase Government Power Authority Regulation Which with Dire Consequence It Seems Only in the Intellectual Elite Is There Somehow They Failure To See the Collapse of the Soviet Union and Other Communist Countries as a Message of Disapproval of Such a System no Wonder What Your Thoughts Are about that Well Let Me Have One Thing the Democratic Party the Leaders Are in the Forefront of There's Not Only Bernie Sanders but Most of the Presidential Aspirants Have Come Out in Favor of Hard Movement Yeah You Know Why Yeah It's It's Certainly a Concern I Would Put It in a Context

And It Breaks Down the Global Division of Labor That during the Cold War a Lot of Capitalist Critics Would Would Pounce On as the Great Reason Why Capitalism Is Still a Failure It Rests on this Global Division of Labor That Condemns the Third Masses of the Third World to Permanent Poverty so the Information Revolution Generated an Industrial Surge That Changed World Politics as I Say It D Industrialized that What It Destroyed the Industrial Working Class in Most of the West and We've Seen the Drop in Americans Who Earn Their Living in Manufacturing since the 1970s as a Percentage of the Workforce

And So It May Well Be and I Prefer I Only Hope that It Is that Ultimately this Technological Change in China and Development Will Bring About Freedom and in China Whatever the Power of the Chinese What They Make of that and There Are Hopeful Signs but but to What To Think that You Know because You Believe that the Arc of History Bends toward Justice or Progress That that It's like a Streetcar and Will Come to the Stop You Want at the Time for You To Take the Ride You Need so that Chinese Democratization Will Solve the Problem of Chinese Development That's Just a Moment You Need I Would Say that Actually the Democratic System Is Doing What It Ought To Do Which Is To Reflect the State of the People that the People in Whatever State of Mind They Are Go to the Polls and Make Choices That's What Democracy Is and I Would Still Argue We'Re Better Off Having that System Even When I Don't Like a Particular Election Outcome Then We Are Trying To Say Well the People Don't Really Know How To Govern Themselves
