B2 English Story Slow Living

By practising slow living, I am starting to appreciate the finer things in life. The sound of the motorway humming in the distance, the birds twittering away in the trees, the click of the kettle as it finishes boiling the water. I feel more aware and grounded than ever before.

I now have a capsule wardrobe consisting of a handful of t-shirts and jumpers, trousers and jeans, and some shorts and skirts.

I mix and match everything. No one needs to have loads of clothes. Sometimes I think we get carried away with trends and become a little greedy.

B2 English Story The Daydreamers

What is a life doing the same day in, day out? Of course, some people enjoy this, some people relish in this, some people can't see their life being any other way

These people are the type of people who do their washing on a Monday, their food shop on a Tuesday, their cleaning on a Wednesday, and so on.

For example, if you are born into royalty, you already have a semi-set plan for life. If you are an heir to the throne, that is what you are destined to do. Unless, of course, you decide to abdicate the throne. You might be born into a family of doctors and lawyers and don't want to follow the family path at all. I should imagine that could be rather trapping. What if you want to be an artist, or a teacher, or perhaps you want to be something completely different, like a farmer!

This doesn't always sit well with some families as they want to see their children in so-called "well respected jobs". In my eyes, all jobs should be respected, no matter what they are!
